CSU Dominguez Hills supports student success in and beyond the classroom with a wide range of student services. These include access to on-campus mental health services and resources provided by qualified professionals and counselors in a confidential and safe setting. Here we present a quick overview of the mental health services available to CSUDH students to help them reach both their personal and academic goals. We also take a look at key mental health issues and how to respond to them.
Guidelines For Faculty And Staff

CSUDH faculty and staff are committed to supporting our students in their personal as well as academic goals. Here we present some of the resources and guidelines available to faculty and staff to assist them in identifying, intervening and helping students who encounter personal, mental and emotional challenges.

Faculty and Staff Consultations
Faculty and staff are encouraged to contact Student Health & Psychological Services for individual consultations regarding issues with disturbed or disruptive students. CSUDH's trained psychological services staff can assist faculty and staff with:
- Identifying strategies for dealing with such situations
- Referral resources for students
- Responding appropriately to harassing, intimidating or threatening behavior

Workshops and Classroom Presentations
CSUDH faculty, staff, clubs and organizations are invited to take advantage of workshops and classroom presentations offered through the Student Health & Psychological Services. Presentations may be given during class for your students and can be designed to cover a specific issue important to you and your students. Topics include:
- Stress management
- Time management
- Family dynamics
- Emotional intelligence
- Psychology of racism
- Overcoming procrastination
- Study skills
- And others

CARE Team
The CSUDH Campus Awareness, Response & Education Team (CARE Team) is a multi-disciplinary collaboration of campus officials formed to prevent, identify, assess and manage situations involving students of concern. For more information, contact Dr. Sonja G. Daniels, Associate Vice President for Student Affairs, Dean of Students at (310) 243-3784.

When To Seek Help
Students are encouraged to contact Student Health & Psychological Services or an emergency number when experiencing:
- Thoughts of harming yourself
- Thoughts of harming someone else
- A traumatic event or loss
- Extreme anxiety or panic
- Odd or intrusive thoughts
BARRT
The Behavioral Assessment & Risk Response Team (BARRT) assesses behavioral “at-risk” situations and develops recommendations to promote campus safety and a non-disruptive educational process. Faculty, staff and students should contact BARRT in the event of any potentially dangerous or threatening situation involving a student. For more information, contact Dr. Janie MacHarg, Director of Student Health & Psychological Services, at (310) 243-3818.

When to Refer Students to CSUDH’s Mental Health Services
Faculty and staff should consider referring students to mental health services if they observe any of the following, especially if the person’s behavior is inconsistent with any prior experiences of that student:

- Excessive agitation
- Increased irritability, undue aggressive or abrasive behavior
- Excessive procrastination, poorly prepared work
- Infrequent class attendance, little or no work completed
- Depression, lack of energy
- Marked change in personal appearance or hygiene
- Withdrawal, isolation, fearfulness
- Sadness, periodic tearfulness
- Dependency (e.g., the student who hangs around or makes excessive appointments to see you)
- Indecisiveness, confusion
- Bizarre, incoherent, alarming or dangerous behaviors

Steps to Take With Students Experiencing Mental Health Issues
If you sense you have a student who is experiencing academic or personal distress, you are encouraged to approach and speak directly with the student if possible. Recommended approaches include:

- Acknowledge that the student appears to be under a great deal of stress.
- Let the student know that psychological counseling is available at CSUDH and may help with the student’s situation.
- Make sure the student knows these services are confidential and free to all currently enrolled students.
- Don’t pursue the issue if the student takes a defensive posture – simply state your concern for their well-being.
- If the student is receptive, suggest that they call Student Health & Psychological Services for an appointment at (310) 243-3818.

Our staff psychologists are also available to assist students in need of crisis counseling. In general, crisis intervention is intended for individuals in need of immediate assistance, such as in instances of severe depression or suicidal feelings, lack of control over appropriate behavior or acute and overwhelming distress from a traumatic event.

Faculty and staff can also call our office at (310) 243-3818 and ask to consult with the Director or one of our psychologists regarding how they might address a disturbed or concerning student, or for additional tips on how to make a referral.
